37 Varying or setting aside agreements

(1) A court may vary or set aside a relationship agreement or any term of a relationship agreement if, in the court's opinion, the circumstances of the partners have so changed since the agreement was entered into that it would lead to serious injustice if the agreement or term (as the case requires) were enforced.

(2) A court may vary or set aside a relationship agreement or any term of a relationship agreement—

(a) if the court is of the opinion that the agreement was entered into under duress or by fraud; or

(b) on any other ground that would allow a contract to be varied or set aside.

- 10

40 Declaration of interests in property

- 15 (1) In a proceeding between domestic partners with respect to existing title or rights in respect of property, a court may declare the title or rights, if any, that a domestic partner has in respect of the property.
- (2) The court may make orders to give effect to the declaration, including orders about possession.

Division 2—Application for orders under this Part

41 Application for adjustment or maintenance

- 20 (1) A domestic partner may apply to a court for either or both of the following—
- 25 (a) an order for the adjustment of interests with respect to the property of one or both of the domestic partners;
- (b) an order for the granting of maintenance.
- 30 (2) An application may be made whether or not any other application for any remedy or relief has been or may be made under this Act or any other Act or any other law.

42 Eligibility for orders—unregistered relationships

(1) This section applies to an application under section 41 by a domestic partner in relation to a domestic relationship other than a registered relationship.

(2) A court may make an order referred to in section 41(1) on the application only if satisfied—

(a) that one or both of the domestic partners lived in Victoria on the day on which the application was made; and

(b) that—

(i) both partners have lived together in Victoria for at least one third of the period of their relationship; or

(ii) substantial contributions of the kind referred to in section 45(1)(a) or (b) have been made in Victoria by the partner making the application; and

(c) that the domestic partners have lived together in the relationship for a period of at least 2 years, except as provided by subsection (3).

(3) Despite subsection (2)(c), a court may make an order if satisfied—

(a) that there is—

(i) a child of the domestic partners; or

(ii) a child accepted by the domestic partners as one of the family, whether or not the child is a child of one or both of the partners; or

(b) that—

- (i) failure to make the order would result in serious injustice to the domestic partner who applied for the order; and
- (ii) the partner who applied for the order has made substantial contributions of the kind referred to in section 45(1)(a) or (b) for which that partner would otherwise not be adequately compensated if the order were not made.

(4) If a court is satisfied about the matters specified in subsection (2)(a) and (b), it may make or refuse to make an order because of facts and circumstances even if those facts and circumstances, or some of them, occurred before the commencement of this Part or outside Victoria or both.

43 Time limit for making applications

- (1) If domestic partners have ended their domestic relationship, an application to a court for an order referred to in section 41(1) must be made within 2 years after the day on which the relationship ended.
- (2) A court may grant leave to a domestic partner to apply for an order at any time after the end of the period referred to in subsection (1) if the court is satisfied that greater hardship would be caused to the partner applying if that leave were not granted than would be caused to the other partner if that leave were granted.

44 Duty of court to end financial relationships

In a proceeding on an application under section 41, a court, so far as is practicable, must make orders that will—

- (a) finally determine the financial relationships between the domestic partners; and
- (b) avoid further proceedings between them.

Division 3—Adjustment of interests in property

45 Order for adjustment

- (1) On an application by a domestic partner under section 41 for an order to adjust interests with respect to the property of one or both of the domestic partners, a court may make an order adjusting the interests of the domestic partners in the property of one or both of them that seems just and equitable to it having regard to—
  - (a) the financial and non-financial contributions made directly or indirectly by or on behalf of the domestic partners to the acquisition, conservation or improvement of any of the property or to the financial resources of one or both of the partners; and
  - (b) the contributions, including any contributions made in the capacity of homemaker or parent, made by either of the domestic partners to the welfare of the other domestic partner or to the welfare of the family constituted by the partners and one or more of the following—
    - (i) a child of the partners;
    - (ii) a child accepted by the partners as one of the family, whether or not the child is a child of one or both of the partners; and
  - (c) the nature and duration of the domestic relationship; and
  - (d) any relevant matter referred to in section 51.

- (2) A court may make the order whether or not it has declared the title or rights of a domestic partner in respect of the property.

Note

See section 59 for the effect of a relationship agreement on the court's power to make an order under this section.

46 Adjournment of application—likelihood of significant change in circumstances

- (1) A court may adjourn an application for an order under section 45, if the court is of the opinion—

(a) that there is likely to be significant change in the financial circumstances of one or both of the partners and that it is reasonable to adjourn the proceeding having regard to the time when that change is likely to take place; and

(b) that an order that the court could make with respect to the property if that significant change in financial circumstances occurs is more likely to do justice between the partners than an order that the court could make immediately.

- (2) The court may adjourn the application—

(a) at the request of either partner; and

(b) until any time, before the end of a period specified by the court, that the partner requesting the adjournment applies for the application to be determined.

- (3) Before a court adjourns an application it may make any order that it considers appropriate with respect to the property.

5 (4) In forming an opinion as to whether there is likely to be significant change in the financial circumstances of one or both of the domestic partners, a court may have regard to any change in the financial circumstances of a partner that may occur because of a financial resource of one or both of the partners being vested in or used for the purposes of one or both of the partners.

10 (5) Nothing in this section—

(a) limits the power of the court to grant an adjournment in relation to any proceeding before it; or

(b) requires the court to adjourn any application in any particular circumstances; or 15 (c) limits the circumstances in which the court may form the opinion that there is likely to be a significant change in the financial circumstances of one or both of the partners.

20 47 Adjournment of application—proceedings in the Family Court

25 (1) If a proceeding in relation to the property of one or both of the domestic partners is commenced in the Family Court at any time before a court has made a final order to adjust interests with respect to the property of one or both of the partners, the court may adjourn its hearing.

30 (2) If the hearing of the application has been adjourned, the applicant for the order may apply to the court for the hearing to proceed if the proceeding in the Family Court is delayed.

(3) Nothing in this section limits the power of the court to grant or refuse an adjournment in relation to any proceeding before it.

48 Deferment of order

If a court is of the opinion that a domestic partner is likely, within a short period, to become entitled to property which may be applied in satisfaction of an order under section 45, the court may defer the operation of the order until the date or the occurrence of the event specified in the order.

49 Effect of death of party on application

(1) If either party to the application dies before an application for an order under section 45 is determined, the application may be continued by or against the legal personal representative of the deceased party.

(2) A court may make an order if it is of the opinion—

(a) that it would have adjusted interests in respect of property if the deceased party had not died; and

(b) that, notwithstanding the death of the deceased party, it is still appropriate to adjust those interests.

(3) The order may be enforced on behalf of, or against, the estate of the deceased party.

50 Effect of death of party on order

If a party to an application for an order under section 45 dies after an order is made against the party, the order may be enforced against the estate of the deceased party.

Division 4—Maintenance

51 Order for maintenance

5 (1) On an application by a domestic partner under section 41 for an order for maintenance, a court may make the order if satisfied that the applicant is unable to support himself or herself adequately because—

10 (a) the partner's earning capacity has been adversely affected by the circumstances of the domestic relationship; or

(b) of any other reason arising in whole or part from the circumstances of the domestic relationship.

15 (2) In determining whether to make an order and in fixing any amount to be paid under the order, a court must have regard to the following—

20 (a) the income, property and financial resources of each domestic partner (including, subject to subsection (3), the rate of any pension, allowance or benefit paid, payable or entitled to be paid to either partner) and the physical and mental capacity of each partner for appropriate gainful employment;

25 (b) the financial needs and obligations of each domestic partner;

(c) the responsibilities of either domestic partner to support any other person;

(d) the terms of any order made or proposed to be made under section 45;

- 5
- 10
- 15
- 20
- 25
- 30
- (e) any payments provided for the maintenance of—
    - (i) a child of the domestic partners; or
    - (ii) a child accepted by the domestic partners as one of the family, whether or not the child is a child of one or both of the partners;
  - (f) the standard of living that is reasonable for each domestic partner in all the circumstances;
  - (g) the extent to which the payment of maintenance to the domestic partner whose maintenance is under consideration would increase his or her earning capacity by enabling him or her—
    - (i) to undertake a course of education or training; or
    - (ii) to establish a business; or
    - (iii) otherwise to obtain adequate income;
  - (h) the extent to which the domestic partner whose maintenance is under consideration has contributed to the income, earning capacity, property and financial resources of the other partner;
  - (i) the age and state of health of each domestic partner;
  - (j) the length of the domestic relationship;
  - (k) the extent to which the domestic relationship has affected the earning capacity of the domestic partner whose maintenance is under consideration;
  - (l) any other facts or circumstances the court considers relevant.

(3) In making an order for maintenance, a court must disregard any entitlement of the person whose maintenance is under consideration to an income-tested pension, allowance or benefit.

(4) If, before an application is determined, either party to the application dies, the application abates.

Note

See section 59 for the effect of a relationship agreement on the court's power to make an order under this section.

52 Interim maintenance

If, on an application by a domestic partner under section 41 for an order for maintenance—

- (a) it appears to a court that the applicant is in immediate need of financial assistance; and
- (b) it is not practicable in the circumstances to determine immediately if any order should be made under section 51—the court may order the payment by the other partner, pending the determination of the application, of any periodic sum or other sums the court considers reasonable.

Note

See section 59 for the effect of a relationship agreement on the court's power to make an order under this section.

53 Subsequent relationship or marriage

If domestic partners cease to be in a domestic relationship, an application to a court for an order for maintenance cannot be made by a domestic partner who, at the time the application is made—

- (a) is in a domestic relationship with another person; or
- (b) has married or remarried.

54 Cessation of order

- (1) An order for maintenance ceases to have effect—
- (a) on the death of the domestic partner in whose favour the order was made; or
  - 5 (b) on the death of the domestic partner against whom the order was made; or
  - (c) on the marriage or remarriage of the domestic partner in whose favour the order was made; or
  - 10 (d) on the registration under this Act of a registrable relationship of the domestic partner in whose favour the order was made.
- (2) If a marriage or remarriage or registration under this Act takes place, the domestic partner must
- 15 notify the partner against whom the order was made of the date of the marriage, remarriage or registration as soon as practicable.
- (3) Any money paid under an order for periodic
- 20 maintenance in respect of a period occurring after the marriage, remarriage or registration takes place may be recovered as a debt in a court of competent jurisdiction by the domestic partner who made the payment.
- (4) If a notification under subsection (2) is not
- 25 provided or reasonable steps are not taken to provide the notification, interest is payable on any money recovered under subsection (3) with effect from the date of the marriage, remarriage or registration.
- 30 (5) The interest payable under subsection (4) must not be greater than the rate fixed under section 2 of the Penalty Interest Rates Act 1983 that applies at the time the court makes the order.

55 Recovery of arrears

The provisions of this Division do not affect the recovery of any arrears that are due under an order for maintenance when the order ceases to have effect.

56 Variation of order for periodic maintenance

(1) On an application by a domestic partner in respect of whom an order has been made for periodic maintenance, a court may—

(a) subject to subsection (2), discharge the order; or

(b) suspend the operation of the order wholly or in part until—

(i) a further order; or

(ii) a fixed time; or

(iii) the happening of a future event; or

(c) revive wholly or in part the operation of an order suspended under paragraph (b); or

(d) subject to subsection (2), vary the terms of the order.

(2) A court must not make an order discharging an order or increasing or decreasing an amount payable under an order unless satisfied that it is justifiable to do so because, since the order was made or last varied—

(a) the circumstances of the domestic partner in whose favour the order was made have changed; or

(b) the circumstances of the domestic partner against whom the order was made have changed; or

(c) the cost of living has changed.

- 5 (3) In satisfying itself for the purpose of subsection (2)(c), the court must have regard to any changes occurring during the relevant period in the Consumer Price Index (All Groups Index) for Melbourne issued by the Australian Statistician (or, if the regulations prescribe another economic index for the purposes of this section, that other index).
- 10 (4) In considering the variation of an order, a court must not have regard to a change in the cost of living unless at least 12 months have elapsed since the order was made or last varied.
- 15 (5) A order increasing or decreasing the amount of a periodic sum payable under an order may be expressed to be retrospective to any date the court thinks fit.
- (6) For the purposes of this section, a court must have regard to section 51.

20 57 Other maintenance orders not to be varied

Subject to section 62, an order for maintenance, other than for periodic maintenance, cannot be varied.

Division 5—General provisions for property adjustment and maintenance orders

25 58 Powers of a court

- (h) make an order or grant an injunction for either or both of the following purposes—
- (i) for the protection of or otherwise relating to the property of one or both of the parties to an application; or
- 20
- (ii) to aid enforcement of any other order made in respect of an application;
- (i) impose terms and conditions;
- (j) make an order by consent;
- 25
- (k) make any other order or grant any other injunction to do justice.
- (2) In relation to an application under this Part, a court may—
- 30
- (a) make any order or grant any remedy or relief that it is empowered to make or grant under this or any other Act or any other law; and

(b) make any order or grant any remedy or relief under this Part in addition to or in conjunction with making any other order or granting any other remedy or relief that it is empowered to make or grant under this Act or any other Act or any other law.

(3) This section does not take away any other power of the court under this or any other Act or any other law.

Note

See section 59 for the effect of a relationship agreement on the court's power to make an order under this section.

59 Effect of relationship agreements

(1) In exercising its powers under this Part in a proceeding, a court must not make an order or do any other thing that is inconsistent with the terms of a relationship agreement between the domestic partners who are parties to the proceeding, if the court is satisfied that—

- (a) the agreement is in writing; and
- (b) the agreement is signed by the partner against whom it is sought to be enforced; and
- (c) each partner was given a legal practitioner's certificate before the time at which the partner signed the agreement; and
- (d) each legal practitioner's certificate is endorsed on, annexed to or otherwise accompanies the agreement.

(2) A legal practitioner's certificate—

- (a) must be signed by the legal practitioner giving it; and
- (b) must state that the legal practitioner provided legal advice to the party to whom the certificate was given, independently of the other party to the domestic relationship, as to the following matters—

- (i) the effect of the agreement on the powers of a court under this Part;
  - 5 (ii) the advantages and disadvantages, at the time that the advice was provided, to the party of making the agreement.
- (3) If the court is satisfied that there is a relationship agreement between the domestic partners but it is not satisfied as to any of the matters referred to in subsection (1)(a), (b), (c) or (d), the court may make any order or do any other thing that it could have made or done if there were no relationship agreement between the partners.
- 10
- (4) In making an order or doing a thing referred to in subsection (3), the court may have regard to the terms of the relationship agreement.
- 15
- (5) Despite subsection (1), a court is not required to give effect to the terms of a relationship agreement if—
- 20
- (a) the court is of the opinion that—
    - (i) the partners have, by their words or conduct, revoked or consented to the revocation of the agreement; or
    - 25 (ii) the agreement has otherwise ceased to have effect; or
  - (b) the court varies or sets aside the agreement or the relevant term of the agreement under section 37.

60 Execution of instruments by order of a court

(1) If—

(a) a person has refused or neglected to comply with an order directing the person to execute a deed or instrument; or

(b) for any other reason, a court thinks it necessary to exercise the powers conferred on it under this subsection—

the court may appoint an officer of the court or other person to execute the deed or instrument in the name of the person to whom the direction was given and to do everything necessary to give validity and operation to the deed or instrument.

(2) The execution of the deed or instrument by the appointed person has the same force and validity as if it had been executed by the person directed by the order to execute it.

(3) A court may make any order it thinks just about the payment of the costs and expenses of and incidental to the preparation of the deed or instrument and its execution.

61 Orders and injunctions in the absence of a party

(1) In the case of urgency, a court in the absence of a party may make an order or grant an injunction for either or both of the purposes specified in section 58(1)(h).

(2) An application under this section may be made orally or in writing or in any form the court considers appropriate.

(3) If an application under this section is not made in writing, the court must not make an order or grant an injunction unless it considers that it is necessary to do so because of the extreme urgency of the case.

(4) The court may give any directions with respect to the filing, serving and further hearing of a written application.

(5) An order or injunction must be expressed to operate or apply only until a specified time or the further order of the court.

(6) The court may give directions with respect to—

(a) the service of the order or injunction and any other documents it thinks fit; and

10

(b) the hearing of an application for a further order.

62 Variation and setting aside of orders

If, on the application of a person in respect of whom an order under section 45 or 51 has been made, a court is satisfied that—

(a) there has been a miscarriage of justice because of fraud, duress, suppression of evidence, the giving of false evidence or any other circumstances; or

(b) in the circumstances that have arisen since the order was made, it is impracticable for the order or part of the order to be carried out; or

25

(c) a person has failed to carry out an obligation imposed on the person by the order and, in the circumstances that have arisen as a result of that failure, it is just and equitable to vary the order or to set the order aside and make a substitute order—

30 the court may vary the order or set the order aside and, if it thinks fit, make an order in substitution for the order set aside.

63 Transactions to defeat claims

- 5 (1) If a court is satisfied that an existing or anticipated order in a proceeding under this Part is likely to be defeated by the making of an instrument or disposition by a party to the proceeding, the court may set aside or restrain the making of the instrument or disposition.
- 10 (2) The court may order that—
- (a) any property dealt with by an instrument or disposition referred to in subsection (1) be taken in execution, or used or applied in, or charged with payment of—
- 15 (i) any sums payable under an order adjusting interests in the property of one or more of the parties to the proceeding; or
- (ii) costs; or
- (b) the proceeds of a sale be paid into court to satisfy an order of the court.
- 20 (3) The court may order a party or a person acting in collusion with a party to pay the costs of any other party, or of a purchaser in good faith or other person interested, of and incidental to the instrument or disposition and the setting aside or
- 25 restraining of the instrument or disposition.
- (4) For the purposes of this section—
- (a) something is made by a person if the thing is made by or on behalf of, or by direction or in the interests of, the person; and
- 30 (b) it does not matter that the document or disposition is intended to defeat the order concerned.

(5) In this section—

disposition includes a sale and a gift.

64 Interests of other parties

(1) In the exercise of its powers under this Part, a court must—

- (a) have regard to the interests of a purchaser in good faith or other person interested; and
